

Cookie Policy

Effective 25 September 2026 | Version 1.0

This policy explains how the Jessie Way Hypnotherapy website uses cookies and similar technologies, what they do, and how visitors can manage their choices. It should be read alongside the Jessie Way Hypnotherapy Privacy Notice.

What cookies are

Cookies are small text files stored on a computer, phone or other device when a website is visited. They can help a website operate securely, remember settings and understand how the site is functioning. Similar technologies, such as local storage or scripts, can perform related functions.

Cookies used on this website

This website is built and hosted using Wix. A Usercentrics for Wix consent tool is used to display the cookie banner and remember visitors' privacy choices.

A Usercentrics website scan completed on 25 September 2026 identified Wix as the only website component and categorised it as Essential. No separate advertising, marketing or analytics component was identified by that scan.

Essential cookies

Essential cookies support functions such as security, fraud and attack detection, stable page delivery, core website operation, API protection and remembering cookie choices. They are necessary for the website or requested service to work and cannot be switched off through the consent banner.

Wix cookies that may be placed

Wix publishes the following list of standard cookies that may be used on Wix websites. A particular cookie may not appear on every visit. Names, purposes and durations may change when Wix updates its platform.

Consent management

The cookie banner allows visitors to accept all optional technologies, deny them, or open Settings to make a more detailed choice. Essential technologies remain active because the website needs them to operate.

A privacy-settings fingerprint icon appears at the bottom left of every page. Visitors can select it at any time to review or change their cookie choices. The consent tool may store a strictly necessary preference so that the website can remember the choice made.

External links

The website contains links that can open external services, including WhatsApp, telephone and email applications. Clicking an external link may take the visitor to a service with its own cookies and privacy practices. Jessie Way Hypnotherapy does not control cookies placed on another organisation's website or application.

Browser controls

Most browsers allow users to view, block or delete cookies through their settings. Blocking essential cookies may prevent parts of this website from working correctly. Browser controls operate separately from the privacy choices available through the website's cookie banner.

Changes to this policy

This policy will be reviewed when the website, Wix configuration, connected applications or tracking technologies change, and otherwise at least annually. The policy may be updated to reflect changes in technology, law or guidance.
